

Armadillo Managed ServicesISO27001 Policy Summary

“As a valued supplier for nearly 20 years we are proud to be called a trusted partner by our clients. Much of this trust is based on a foundation of doing the right things when it comes to our own data - and that of our clients. As an organisation with a sole purpose of helping others to do business securely, we must lead by example. One way we ensure we do the right things is through a set of documented policies and processes, namely our ISO 27001 Information Security Management System. We have learnt a lot over the past two decades and will continue to do so. Where we make mistakes, we will recognise them, resolve them and through updating our policies and procedures prevent them from happening again. Through us all working together we can continue to improve our information security, and ultimately the delivery of service to our clients.”
